

Worth Investigating

If statements made by George A. Hurst of Regina, as they appear in a pamphlet entitled "Salvaging the Hudson Bay Route", which has recently been widely distributed by the On-to-the-Bay Association, are well founded, it would appear that it is high time Western Canadians gave some attention to allegations that the route is being throttled and gave some consideration to a resolution recently passed by the association.

The resolution to which reference is made reads:

"That this Association go on record as being in favor of the principle of Western Canada management of the commercial facilities of the Port of Churchill, and that they should be brought under the control and management of a Western organization in conjunction with the provincial governments of Saskatchewan and Manitoba."

In preferring his charges that the route is being undermined and rendered ineffective, partly because of lack of knowledge or indifference on the part of some who should have the western farmers' interests at heart and partly because the grain trade, in conjunction with remote officials is heaping the use of the route with impossible restrictions, Mr. Hurst should know where he speaks, for during most of the construction period and the entire time the port has been in operation up to January, 1938, he resided and worked at Churchill as accountant for the Dominion government.

It is perhaps significant that, while the On-to-the-Bay Association disclaims any responsibility for the correctness of the statements and charges made by Mr. Hurst in his pamphlet, the Association evidently considers them of sufficient importance to warrant wide publicity for them, by making arrangements for distribution of the pamphlet and by pointing out that although the contents were published earlier in a series of articles "as far as we are aware no one has come forward to dispute the truth of the statements made."

Inquiry Desirable

The fact that Mr. Hurst was in a peculiarly favorable position to secure the information on which he bases his premises, coupled with the sponsorship of the pamphlet by the On-to-the-Bay Association, an organization which has carefully studied the route in its activities, indicates the desirability of an inquiry being made into the method of operating the route, with a view to some change in the form of management of the port and its facilities if such an investigation shows that the efficiency of the route is being stifled by counter interests and the interests of the producers are not being protected.

When it is remembered that over fifty million dollars has been invested in the Hudson Bay railway and the Port of Churchill and its facilities and that, if Mr. Hurst is correct, the great bulk of the cost was borne by the west, no one should be left unreturned to see that the westerners' interests in this large expenditure is protected, and that it be made to yield the return which was expected of it during the half century fight to establish a short and direct export and import route between the prairies and the European countries.

If the port is being allowed to languish and the route to die of inanition, as Mr. Hurst claims when he speaks of it as the "starved and unwanted child," with specific details to support it, then no time should be lost in taking whatever steps are necessary to revitalize the route and, if possible, to make it the important and effective artery it was intended to be.

Interesting Suggestions

Any person who reads the pamphlet with care cannot fail to be impressed with the background of knowledge of his subject apparently displayed by Mr. Hurst and the apparent plain face case which he makes out for a change in the administration of the port and its facilities and other proposals designed to cheapen the use of the route and enable it to return greater dividends to prairie producers and Western business.

The not least interesting of Mr. Hurst's statements are contained in the chapter devoted to freight rates, in which he contends that the average rate on the Great Lakes from 1932 to 1937 was 4½ cents compared with an average of 8½ cents before Churchill entered the lists as a competitor.

If the figures are correct there seems to be some foundation for the assumption that, even though only a small fraction of the crop was handled through the Bay route during that period, the very existence of this alternative artery had an important bearing on the returns to the farmer for the entire crop in that six-year period, provided the savings were returned to the producer.

On this basis, what might happen to rates on the Great Lakes were the Bay route to be rendered a negative factor and the Port of Churchill closed up as a "white elephant" is a subject for interesting speculative thought.

Even if some of Mr. Hurst's claims could not be established, the suggestion that the administration of the port be turned over to a body of Westerners, who could be relied upon, not only to stem stagnation or worse, but actively to promote business for the Bay route seems to be a reasonable one. After all, the west is the parent of the project and could surely be depended upon to nourish the youngster much better than a foster mother.

A New Industry

Iceland Spar Is Being Developed In South-West Africa

A new industry—the production of Iceland Spar—is being developed in South-West Africa, the former German colony which is now held under mandate by the Union of South Africa.

Iceland Spar was discovered in the territory in 1928. It is a crystal which has wide uses in the manufacture of optical instruments, television sets, color photography apparatus, laboratory instruments, periscopes and range-finding devices.

Reserves are such that South-West Africa would be able to fulfill the requirements of the entire world.

There are estimated to be 250,000 tons in operation for each 1,000 residents of the United States.

Police Dog Made Good

Turned In Neat Job On First Assignment For R.C.M.P.

The newest member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in Nova Scotia, trained police dog, turned in a neat job on its first assignment.

The dog found two young Indians who a few hours after they strayed away from the Indian school at Schubenacadie about 440 miles from Halifax.

When the boys were reported missing, the police were called in. A piece of clothing of one of the boys gave the dog the scent and it started into the dense woods back of the school.

The first youth was found about 8½ miles from the building. After the dog was returned to the school for a rest, it picked up the scent of the second youth from one of his shirts. It followed the original trail for five miles, then branched off and at a distance of three and a half miles farther on the other boy was discovered.

The dog, a 20-month-old Doberman Pinscher, is one of 35 used by police in Canada. It was trained at the Regina headquarters.

Paletine Question

Manifesto Urges Arabs To Lay Down Their Arms

Arab chiefs reported King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia and the regent of Iraq were issuing a manifesto urging Palestine Arabs to lay down their arms in their conflict with Great Britain over Holy Land rule.

It was hoped by its sponsors that the manifesto, addressed to the exiled Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin Effendi Al Husseini, would pave the way for Arab acceptance of British proposals for settlement of the Palestine question. The Grand Mufti is in Syria.

Banking Committee Approves Limit Of Five Per Cent. On Non-Competitive Contracts

The senate banking committee approved a five per cent. profit limit on non-competitive defence contracts, after being informed by Senator Raoul Dandurand, government leader, that the cabinet had decided to stand by the clause despite objections raised in the senate committee as to its impracticability.

The committee then passed the bill, with numerous changes in the wording, none affecting the principle of setting up a defence purchasing board.

"The government feels it can apply the principles laid down in the act and that it should not provide for larger profits on non-competitive contracts," said Senator Dandurand. The committee had recommended a higher profit than five per cent. be set.

Discovery of a new anesthetic which abolishes pain all over the body, without affecting consciousness, was reported to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology. The anesthetic is a crystalline chemical, which dissolves easily in water, and is given in a simple subcutaneous injection. The chemical name is 24 letters long, and for short it is called a phenol ether.

Expert On Dickens

Toronto Woman Could Instantly Place Any Of His Characters

From the time many years ago when 'teens when she spent birthday money to buy a paper-covered set of Dickens novels, Mrs. John England was an ardent Dickens reader. Almost her last expression before her sudden death at her Fairmount Crescent home in Toronto, was regret that she was missing a Dickens meeting in Hart House. She could designate instantly in what work by Dickens any mentioned character moved. At the age of 87, Mrs. England was one of the oldest and most revered members of the Toronto branch of the Dickens Fellowship.

Just A Suggestion

Gramophone Record Of Good Screen

We have often noticed in accounts of attempted robberies that when a woman screamed the thief took flight as if by magic. But when they hear their stuffs to some extent but it is seldom the manager or some other member of the staff has time to reach for the gun. They don't carry a gun on their hips like cowboys and by the time they could get at the gun, which is probably in a drawer, the gunman, either alone or with aides, has the staff covered, his finger on his trigger. When the robbery is over the manager gets his gun into play, provided he is not locked in the vault, and fires a shot over a fleeing car. But that seldom brings results.

There appears to be nothing so effective as an unarmed woman who can let out a full-throated scream and keep screaming on these occasions. It has thwarted robbers innumerable times. She screams because she is herself frightened, and in doing so she frightens the robber, because if there is anything he does not want it is for the neighborhood to be alarmed. He needs quiet in which to do his job. He fears a woman's screams more than he does a gun.

So we make this suggestion to banks, storekeepers and all others who take precautions against a hold-up some day: Throw away your guns; get a lady-linguist woman to make a gramophone record of her best scream and keep on screaming; attach a device to a gadget on the door of the teller's cage or the cashier's desk, have loud speakers inside and outside the premises, and when the holdup man says "This is a stick-up," just press the button and let the mystery woman scream. We'll guarantee her run.

Maybe it is a daffy sort of idea, but we have faith in it.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Not Impossible

Submarine Could Come From Europe

To Harbor Of Halifax

An unidentified submarine may or may not have been seen in the harbor of Halifax.

The real point of the thing, at this time, is that a submarine could come to the harbor of Halifax. Could come to it from Europe.

In other words, if war broke out tomorrow, submarines could, and undoubtedly would, come to Halifax. They could come to destroy Canadian shipping; to torpedo ships carrying our products.

German submarines appeared in Canadian waters in the last war. To-day Germany has more submarines than in the last war, and they are powerful; submarines with a greater cruising radius.

Which tells what? Simply that talk about Canada being isolated from war in Europe is nonsense. Germany could—and would—send submarines across the Atlantic; just as she could—and most likely would—send her bombing planes across the Atlantic. Our seaboard cities, Halifax and Saint John and Sydney, would be under attack—and perhaps our northern mining areas.

The attackers would probably not hear, nor know, about speeches in the Canadian Parliament on "neutrality"—Ottawa Journal.

Fourteen-Ton Typewriter

The cast of a Broadway show staged a one-act afternoon stand in New York to celebrate completion of the Underwood-Elliott Fisher exhibit at the World's Fair. Girl dancers pruned on the keyboard of the fourteen-ton typewriter that is the focus of the exhibit and others in the cast stuck their heads through the giant roll of paper in the typewriter roller.

CHAPTER IX.—Continued

They climbed to a thousand feet, two thousand. The meadow fell away beneath them; human beings took on the value of playthings—puppet people with toy automobiles. There was likewise a toy ambulance.

At three thousand, feet Gunnar nodded. "Ready? Now you go!" he shouted hoarsely.

Sarah Lynn stood up and made her bulky way toward the opening. "She thought he was the palest living person she had ever seen."

"Fling yourself far from the ship. Make sure you are clear. Count a slow ten before you pull the cord!" His words came jerkily. "Wait! You are sure? You wish to go? There is no need, if you—"

Suddenly Sarah Lynn laughed aloud, filled with a wild mirth which was heavy and sweet. "Still the fear of death," she mocked him. "Life is one adventure; death is another!" She was confident, shining-eyed, radiant, but as she made a forward movement his arm shot out and caught her, pulling her against him.

"Sarah Lynn—" he said her name queerly, in a choked voice, and kissed her, a fierce kiss, deep and desperate.

Then she was leaping out into swift and stinging air and was amazed to find that she did not immediately fall. The speed of the Hermod was carrying her along beneath it, faced downward, with her arms and legs spread out like a starfish. There was the strange sensation of travelling across the air rather than through it.

"He kissed me!" she exclaimed. "Gunnar kissed me!"

She began to fall, her body twisting and turning. Now she was looking up at the plane, now down at the earth which was coming swiftly, perilously closer.

"There's something I must do, now!" she thought, and she fell, yes! The cord! But where is that ring?"

Her fingers fumbled for it. It seemed to be lost in the webbing. Why hadn't she kept her hand on it all the time? She turned over again and saw the Hermod still above her but further away, nonsensical and saw the earth rushing up to meet her. Why hadn't Gunnar taken her higher than three thousand feet?

Sarah Lynn thought suddenly of her mother. She had a poignant picture of Adelaide Dana's upstairs sitting-room, pretty and peaceful, with potted plants whose every leaf glowed, and a canopy warbling tendrilly in an expensive cage, and quantities of framed photographs of her big brothers and herself and young Bill in all stages of infancy and childhood.

Now!

She found the ring and gave a desperate jerk. Now! She knew exactly what would happen. The rip-cord would release the pack and the spring trips of the little pilot chute would open automatically, catching the air and dragging the main chute out into a long line and the wind would rush in at the bottom and expand it. It simply could not fail; Gunnar and Conrad and Vance Le Roy had checked it thoroughly. "And even if it doesn't work," she told herself, "there's the emergency chute. I'm not rattled," she rejoiced. And Gunnar kissed me! He was white as a sheet and scared to death about me, and he kissed me! And it was the kind of kiss—

There was a weird noise which was something between a whistle and a shriek; something was flung overhead, and then snapping, loudly, urgently.

"It's gun went!" Then a gun went off somewhere, a shocking, thunderous boom, and her downward progress was halted so abruptly that she thought her arms and shoulders were being torn loose from her body. There were unfamiliar, instead of confusion and terror, and then peace enveloped her. Her chute opened and was functioning perfectly. She was floating gently and everything was quiet about her, a sweet, celestial quietness which was soothing and comforting.

She could see the ambulance moving slowly to keep in line with her. She had lost the Hermod for the moment, but surely Gunnar would land as quickly as possible and come to her. That kiss, she felt, was not final; it must be a prelude. Even if it had been given in high excitement, it stood for an emotion which wasn't to be disposed of with this adventure. Fliers did not marry. Oh, didn't they? Then what?

There was a confused clamor of voices, cheerful, exultant. "Good girl!" Conrad Jordan said, lifting her to her feet. "Perfect performance!"

"Where is Gunnar?" Sarah Lynn demanded.

Old Pete from the airport was swearing softly and happily, paying her high praise with picturesque embellishments.

"Hold still!" Conrad Jordan had taken out his handkerchief and was wiping her face, and there was bright blood on the white linen.

"What's that from? She bled impatiently. "I'm not hurt."

"Of course you're not, just a scratch or two, when you were dragged."

"Here's Gunnar!"

"He'll be here just as quick as he can set the ship down," she assured her friend said. "Now we'll just get aboard and let them run us back to Lynn and the old lady!" He was steering her toward the ambulance.

"I'm not hurt. I'm not going to ride in that thing!" she told him indignantly. "Where will he come down?"

"Quickest way to get there," he said, taking her arm in a firm grip. "We'll all pile in. Half a mile away!" He lifted her and set her inside and a white-suited orderly grunted and congratulated her.

"I want Gunnar," Sarah Lynn said.

"He'll be here in a jiffy. Lynn, and your Gunnar need to see you before they're convinced you're safe, though we signalled them. Well, did it all the time according to schedule. Did it follow the pattern?"

"Oh, perfectly! It was heavenly after the chute opened, the air was so good, standing to look out of the ambulance. "I don't see the Hermod."

"But you can hear him." Right over us," Vance Le Roy said.

The matron and the cripple and the old governess greeted her in characteristic ancient woman say in her reincarnation of her own mind, daring youth, choosing, as she had done, the brightest adventure of her period, and the paralytic submitted his own hesitations in her courage and skill.

"I'll tell you it was all plumb foolishness, tagging you up with that hospital wing, 'Sairy Lynn,' Mayhew said. "I said you'd come down like a leaf off a tree. Us Danas we must generally do what we set our minds to! Leastways, we do it one."

Lynn Dana smiled into her eyes. "I'm glad for you," he told her, "and proud. You've given me my best moment, Sarah Lynn."

Mess Pennington's high color was faded but his dictation was as crisp as always. "Let me tidy your hair a bit, she bustled up to her. "I should have thought to have you wear a close net."

The girl slipped out from under her hands. The Hermod was under and Gunnar Thorwald was up and running toward her. She went to meet him.

"I'll know as soon as I see his face," she told herself. "I'll know the first second—"

Gunnar was still white, but he saw at first glance that she was angry, and her heart turned over in terror. There was in his pale face a look of fright and of fury. She did not know what it meant.

Electricity Splits Balls

When it comes to split splitting, Abraham Lincoln was born about one hundred years too soon. He would be a recent demonstration at the California Institute of Technology. Instead of splitting them by hand as Lincoln did, the institute now has developed a 1,000,000 volt apparatus that splits them with ease.

The first free library in the world was established in Manchester, England, in 1853.

How Women In Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her 40's. It's not too late to get a new look. You can't lose her appeal to men, who worship a woman's face, hair, and body. You can't lose her appeal to men, who worship a woman's face, hair, and body. You can't lose her appeal to men, who worship a woman's face, hair, and body.

Thirty Yeras Serving Gleichen and Community
All business needs more or less printed matter, all of which is within the possibilities of the local printer. Yet how prone many are to pass up the home printer and let the orders go to city offices which have no interest whatever in rural communities except to get printing orders and the cash to pay for them. Business men, remember that the home paper is constantly promoting the interests of the home community and you owe it to your self and your local paper to back up these efforts by at least having your printed matter done locally.
